A COLD DAY'S SPORT AT PLEETWOOD PARK. The admirers of trotting had a cold day's sport at Fleetwood Park yesterday. There was a fair attendmee and an excellent track. The principal event was to have been a match between the well known horses Joe Brown and Adelaide, but the track was deemed much too hard to trot such speedy horses as Brown and adelaide on. Consequently the sport consisted of sev-The first race decided was between Smith's Pet top wagens. The latter team was the favorite most of the pooks sold, but Bind Boy trotting very unsteady in the third and fourth heats they were beaten—a result unsatisfactory to Mr. Dickaon, and which produced a second race, of which we heats had been tretted when darkness compelled two heats had been tretted when darkness compelled the postponement of the race until half past one P. M. Saturday. The second race decided was between Atwater's Break o' Day and Davidson's Missouri Boy, Much of the betting was at even figures. Break o' Boy, Much of the betting was at even figures. Break o' Boy, Much of the betting was at even figures. Break o' Boy, however, the money. Those backing Missouri Boy, however, the did not affect the race, Break o' Day winning the fifth heat easy. Another match will be probably made, as Missouri Boy threw two of his shoes in the fifth heat easy. Another match will be probably made, as Missouri Boy threw two of his shoes in the fifth heat which prevented him from trotting steady at the finish. The far more difficult task was then undertaken of shooting at 800 yards. The target has a bull's eye, circular, 46 inches in diameter; the centre is also circular and 56 inches in diameter, while the inner square measures 72 inches. At the great distance of 800 yards the target is reduced in size more than any reader would suppose who has not tried to hit it. Major Fulton shoots lying on his back, the rifle between his crossed legs, his left arm behind his neck, helding the butt of the gun in his left hand, the elbow of the right arm resting on the ground, known as the "Farquarian" position.

The highest possible score is 75. The following score Was made, vis. — 5 5 4 3 4 5 5 4 4 5 5 4 5 5 4 67

SPORTING NOTES.

The San Francisco Chronicle of November 24, noticing the postponement of the great four-mile race, Aten, A. S. Post, C. W. Wingate, Dr. Wynne, says:-"Even if the track were in condition the horses would be unable to put in an appearance. Springbok, Wildidle and the rest of the 'flyers,' with the excep. tion of Rutherford, are more or less affected by the Mr Gilersleeve killed four of his five, and the first anizooty and in no condition whatever for a four-mile noney ($16) fell to him. For second money seven genheat. The damp and disagreeable weather of the past two weeks has aggravated the distemper, and it will shoot off. Messrs. Broadway and Van Buren were the most formidable competitors, each killing four straight, and Mr. Van Buren also brought to grass his take till the holidays to get the horses in proper shape

American Girl, recently dead, came into the possession of William Loveli in 1867, then five years old. She won for her owner in 1865 $4,000; in 1872, $18,500; in 1873, $10,500; in 1873, $10,500; in 1873, $10,600; in 1875, $1,400; in 1873, $10,500; in 1875, $1,400; in 1876, $1,400; in 1876, $1,400; in 1876, $1,400; in 1875, $1,400; in 1876, $1,400; in 1878, $1,400 of ten birds each, thirty yards rise. The best that Derter had on the grounds were selected for the event, and they proved hard to kill and quite rapid flyers. Occasionally they would hang to the trap, but once up, they got away in such style that the shooters were little confused and inclined to the opinion that they were above the average. Mr. Pane used Mr. Van Buren's gun, which was a 12-bore Grant breechloader. Mr. Van Buren went first to the mark and missed a slow incomer, when Pane knocked down a quarterer to the left with the second. Van Buren shot behind his second bird, a quarterer to the right, using both loads to accomplish it. The third time to the scratch Van Buren killed very pristily a quarterer, to the left, while I ra missed with both arrest to the right, the little was a first time as one-half the racehorse in the country is something that was unbeard of in racing circles until the advent of Jennie. Sho fir a quarterer to the left, while I ra missed by the burning of a barn in which she was he shot behind his, also a quarterer to the right, with both barrels. A white bird, quartering to the left, with a mass missed by Van Buren was noted in the both barrels. A white bird, quarterer to the left, with left had been comb barrel, which placed him one ahead of his competitor, with the match half ever. Van Buren shot behind his such, aganterer to the left, and Paine also missed his, which left the trap very rapidly and quartered to the right. The seventh round Van Buren had an incomer which was neatly stopped with the scoond barrel search the back boundary. Prince then missed a driver and the shooters had killed three each. Van Buren was neatly stopped with the barrels a quarterer to the right, which again put them on even the left, but Paine also distinct the missed a driver and the shooters had killed three each. Van Buren was neatly stopped with the barrels as quarterer to the right, which again put them on even the left, but Paine missed with both barrels a quarterer to the right, which had a lo

CENTRAL PARK.

PREPARATIONS FOR SKATING ON THE PONDS-THE ICE NOT YET STRONG ENOUGH-JUVE-NILE DISAPPOINTMENT.

Ever since Old Boreas has been among us, whistling round our gables and playing his odd pranks with the ears and noses of rash podestrians, sportive youths and maidens in and about this city of ours have been lookng for tidings of congealed ponds with joyful anticipation. Small boys, too, who in hours of ephemeral affluence have invested their worldly means in skates. have scrutipized passing borse cars with feverist doubts of this portion of the community a HERALD re. porter visited Central Park yesterday. It looked dismal enough with all the brightness of the sun and the clearness of the weather. The "last rose of summer" has long since been shed from its shrivelled stem, the bright green bushes have passed into "the sere and yellow" phase of their existence, and the gannt old trees stretch their skeleton arms impleringly to the skies as if supplicating pity for their nakedness. A few visitors loitered around the meangers, where the animals have betaken themselves to winter quarters, with the exception of the sea lion, which views its frozen tank very contentedly, no doubt indulging the patriotic fancy that it has been restored to its native iceberg. More ample provisions have been made by the Park authorities for the shelter and comfort of their dumb charge than formerly. The houses are all anug and heated in most cases by steam from the arachal. Several new buildings have been erected notably a cattle house for the accommodation of the Park's bovine denizens. It may also be mentioned in this connection that the third bridge, completing the southwest walk system, is almost finished, thus affording direct communication with the museum to visitors from the west side. The reporter next visited the lakes, which he found in no condition for skating purposes. They were frozen for the most part around the inargin, but.

CREVICES INTERSECTED THE ICE, and the dirt washed down by recent showers was everywhere mingled with it. Around the large pond various small boys, whose confidence in Jack Frost rose superior to their trust in weather signals, wandered disconsolately, and ever and anon they cast glances of ferce malignity at Old Sol, under whose rays their preapects of enjoyment were fast melting away. Evidently the cold snap has been anticipated in the Park, for there were evidences scattered about of active preparations having been made to afford accommodations to skatera. The houses devoted to skaters' accommodations, which might in summer be turned to use for the boats, but they concluded to defer taking any action till next dismal enough with all the brightness of the sun and the clearness of the weather. The 'tast rose of sum-turned to use for the boats, but they concluded to deler taking any action till next year.

During the last few months the lower or Fifty-nint street lake has been found to be choked up in places by the accommitted debris washed into it by rain, and it is announced that during the present season it shall not be open to skaters. The intention of the authorities is controlly sometical with the other bodies of waters. be epen to skaters. The intention of the authorities is to cut off its connection with the other bodies of waters and in the caming winter months to drain and thoroughly cleanse it. Other improvements have been under consideration by the Commissioners of Parks, and it is thought that if they prosecute the work of enclosing, as they have lately been doing, the entire wall will soon be completed. The reporter's visit showed that the guardians of public enjoyment are not idle, but it also went to show that the sport-loving community must look for a continuance of the cold snap before they see the ball up.

SKATING IN BROOKLYN.

Vesterday the cars passing in the vicinity of the Capitoline Grounds, Brooklyn, carried the red-ball flags, and large numbers of boys and young men flags, and large numbers of boys and young men, with a small representation of the gentler sex, resorted thither to try the skating. This was found to be good, the ice, though yet thin, being strong and smooth. The authorities at Prospect Park, who are responsible for the management of the pretty lake there, are making provision for the early lopening of that fine sheet or water to the public, an event which, judging from present atmospheric indications, will not be long delayed. The Park Lake covers an area of fifty acres, so that the steel shod pleasure seeker can glide along for miles without encountering obstacles.

FUN AT PATERSON.

Skating is good on all the ponds in and about Pater son, N. J., where the ourling season is opened, several practice games already having been played.

THE BILLIARD CHAMPIONSHIP.

Albert Garnier has challenged Cyrille Dion to a match game of billiards for the championship of America and the gold medal emblematic of that condition. He has placed $250 as forfeit in the hands of Mr. Delaney. PHONOGRAPHY FOR LADIES.

A ladies' free class for instruction in phonic short hand and reporting will be organized on Saturday, De-cember 4, in room 24 of the Cooper Institute. The opening lecture will be delivered by the teacher, Mrg. A FRIGHTENED "DARKY."

A fight occurred in a barroom at No. 147 Bleecker street, kept by a colored man who bears the sobriquet of "Major" Poole, yesterday forenoon, about half-past into the residence of R. H. A MONSTROUS PROPOSITION.

THE HABLEM PLATS NUISANCE TO BE TRANS

FERRED TO BANDALL'S ISLAND MEADOWS. In the meeting of the Board of Police yesterday proposition was adopted which, if sanctioned by the mon Council, would repeat with multiplied mischiefs the horrors which for many months threatened the neighborhood of Harlem flats with pestilence. It is a plan to make the sunken meadows at the lower end of Randail's Island the receptacle of all the city's fifth, offal, garbage and recking nastiness, to taint the air with nauseous odors and poison the East River with putrescent ordere. Should this locality be made, as the resolution of the Police Board contemplates, the dumping ground of all the street sweepings, night soil, garbage and offai from the city, it is easy to imagine and frightful to reflect what may be its disastrous consequences upon the health and comfort of citizens of New York and of the adjacent parts of Long Island, and the unfortunates living in the penal and charitable institutions in the neighborhood. Both humanity and the rights of property owners will prompt all persons not interested in the corrupt job to frown upon so frightful a proposition. The following is the proposal, as embodied in the proceedings of the Police Board :-

tion. The following is the proposal, as embodied in the proceedings of the Police Board:—

Whereas by the provisions of the statutes concerning street cleaning (chap. 677, Laws of 1872), the Board of Police is required to cause the streets of the city to be thoroughly cleaned and kept clean, and to remove from said city daily all the materials gathered in the process of street cleaning, except such parts thereof as in the judgment of the Board of Health may be suitable to fill low and sunken lots; and whereas there is no point adjacent to the city of New York and outside thereof, either on land or water, where the materials in question can be placed without trespassing upon the independent jurisdiction of the State of New Jersey, Staten Island, Long Island, Westchester county or the State of Connecticut. To conform to the mandate of the law requiring the material to be removed daily out of the city the Board of Police have been compelled during the summer to waste the material in the open ocean outside of Coney Island, at great expense to the treasury of the city, even during the winter season when storms and ice will render the towing of scows out to sea impossible; and whereas lying near to and southeast of Randall's Island is an extensive area called "Runken Meadowa," which is new valueless. The Board of Police is informed that this area could be reclaimed and utilized by depositing thereon the street cleaning materials. If raised above high tide it would add to the freehold estate of the city an area of valuable land equal to about one-half the present extent of Randall's Island. With the approval of the Board of Police facilities for the lawful disposition of street cleaning materials during the winter, without which the business of street cleaning can be done only at great cost and risk.

Resolved, That the Honorable the Mayor, Altermen and Commonalty of the city of New York be and are hereby respectfully requested to take such action as is appropriate and effective to enable the Board of Police, with the

THE BROOKLYN COUNTERFEITERS.

The trial of Philip Lewinski and John and Thomas Loughery was resumed in the United States Circuit Court yesterday noon, before Judge Benedict. The attendance was quite numerous, interest apparently increasing with the progress of the investigation of the mysteries of making minor currency without license. August C. Lambert, the venerable German engraver who sunk the dies, was recalled for the prosecution and identified a number of spurious coins shown him, which were made from unlawful dies. A bill was then offered in evidence for services rendered to the Longberys, which, paper was found in their possession when they were arrested July 31. Another paper was then offered in evidence giving a schedule of metal. Witness said he had held a conversation with John Loughery with reference to the requisite strength of the press needed; an eight horse power press was, in the opinion of the witness, sufficient to do the work; he generally worked in his own house, but there was a turning lathe which he frequently used at Lougherys'; saw the Lougherys' working at the large press; saw them stamp five cent nickel pieces with the dies which he had made; the small press was used for cutting out the coin before they were stamped; had seen them punch out the blank nickels in the shop; he had seen them punch out the blank nickels in the shop; he had seen them punch out the blank nickels in the large press, and had seen them turn the press and then take out from it the stamped five cent nickels; witness identified the box containing unfinished dies, nickels and fine tools, which were found with the Lougherys at the time they were arrested in New York; he once went with the brothers to New York to look at a press; in the shop in Lexington avenue, Brooklyn, he subsequently saw the press which he had looked at in New York; on one occasion the brothers, in company with Lowinski, came into the apartments of witness and showed him handsful of the five cent nickels which they had manufactured Witness said that he had learned engraving before coming to America, when he was quite a youth; he learned the business as an amusement; he had done engraving there for persons who were in the counterfeiting business; it took from fourteen days to three weeks to perfect one of the dies made for the Loughery brothers; he had received no promise from the District Attorney that he would not be prosecuted if he testified for the government; by examination of the coin he could tell whether the coins were or were at Lougherys'; saw the Lougherys' working at the the District Attorney that he would not be prosecuted if he testified for the government; by examination of the coin he could tell whether the coins were or were not made from his dies; the coins which were shown him were not all made by the same single die; neither Lewinski nor Loughery had told him that they were working for the government. Oliver C. Bashyshell, assistant to the coiner at the United States Mint in that city—In the months of January, February and March the mint coined live-cent piece; the five-cent nickel, the three-cent nickel and the one-cent bronze are known as the minor coinage of the government; the machinery in the Marshal's office is used in the manufacture of five-cent nickels; machinery very much like it is used in the Philadelphia mint.

Captain Keyser, of the Sixth precluct police, testified is used in the manufacture of five-cent nickels; machinery very much like it is used in the Philadelphia mint.

Captain Keyser, of the Sixth precinct police, testified as to the details of the arrest of Lewinski, which the readers of the Huratio are familiar with.

James A. Redding, clerk in the Sub-Treasury, Fraction Department, testified that he had examined the various specimens of coin, handed for his inspection by the District Attorney, and found them to be counterfeit nickels; they counterfeit specient coin, or the minor coinage of the United States; 'n witness' judgment they are a good imitation of the original coinage, and are well calculated to deceive; witness had found that they were all made from the same die.

Officer Patrick Murphy testified that he saw John and Thomas Loughery on July 31, 1873, on Oliver street, shortly before midnight; Thomas was carrying a small box, John having a case and other articles in his hands; he overhauled them, and upon inquiry was told by John that there was old German silver in the box, and that he was taking the stuff to a place on the corner of East Broadway and Catharine street; that he was bringing it to a lagor beer saloon for a man named Lewinski, whom he said was in the iron business in Brocklyn; at the station house where he took the Loughreys the box was found to contain blank nickel pieces for five-cent pieces. scraps of old metal and pieces of machinery; the captain asked them if they thought it convenient for them to bring over such materials at that time of night and they said "it was convenient for them;" they also had in their possession an air gun; they were then locked up.

they said "it was convenient for them;" they also had in their possession an air gun; they were then locked up.

Deputy United States Marshal Benjamin W. De Clue, testined that he had known Lewinski between one and two years; knew the Lougherys for three years; Lewinski was brought to the Marshal's office on charge of passing counterfeit nickel; he was allowed to go at large for about two weeks to look for bail; August 2, before his rearrest, Lewinski visited the office and told the witness that they were "giving him away," and he asked witness whether he would not go upstairs and tell the District Attorney that he would testify for the government if that official would permit him to do so; witness told Assistant District Attorney Hoxie what Lewinski had said, but Mr. Hoxie would not accept him; Lewinski said that "Loughery was the man who had given him away;" Lewinski then gave the witness full information as to where the machinery was to be found in Lexington avenue; the officers proceeded at once to the place and seized the property; they found two presses, a forge, an auvil and bench and other pieces of machinery; the shop was a two story frame building—the front part of the house faces the street and is used as a stable; knew the Lougherys when they kept a saloon on Myrtle avenue; their reputation was very good and he had never heard an improper word of them before their arrest upon this charge.

Officer Murphy, recalled, identified a small memo-charge.

Officer Murphy, recalled, identified a small memorandum book which he found on John Loughery and which was handed him by the District Attorney.

The Court was then adjourned till noon to-day.

THE UNION HILL BANDITTI.

Charles Schroeder, of Union Hill, N. J., who was found with his skull crushed in a vacant lot near his residence, remains nearer to death than to life. He thinks that he was followed from Hoboken by two suspicious looking men and believes that they in-flicted the injuries upon him.
